Development: (T1) Fell a 3-metre-high hollow Willow stump to ground level, (T2) Crown reduction to one Horse Chestnut tree by 2.5 metres to a height of 11 metres and spread of 6 metres.

Tree Survey:

(T1) Outwardly the tree stump appears to be in a very poor physiological state and it is completely hollow with bee's living in it in the summer, the client wishes to fell the stump to ground level to prevent it falling over as it has root plate movement.

(T2) Outwardly the tree appears to be in a fair physiological state. Apart from an old wound around fence height on the eastern aspect has had a detrimental effect on the tree's vitality, and it has failed to callus over due to the nature of the wounds size. This has compromised the right-hand stem by around 45%.
