To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my concern about the plans to build 90 homes on a green field site in Ford road. As much as I understand the need to increase numbers of available housing this must be done where the infrastructure can withstand it. The demand for schools and doctors in Arundel is already high and the increased traffic that this amount of houses will bring will put a lot more cars onto what is already a busy road. There are currently numerous building projects taking place in Yapton and Barnham which will affect traffic on the Ford road and lead to rat runs through the neighbouring roads.

This is a greenfield site and one which should be protected. I hope that you will take these objections into consideration and refuse the planning application.

Yours sincerely,

Sue Webb
