Good morning Ross

Thank you for your email following our telephone conversation.

As discussed, the building was residential prior to approval for office use.

The layout remains as it was when it was residential so there are no internal alterations proposed.

In fact, the bathroom retains a bath and has not been altered at all.

I suspect that we should replace the sanitaryware and kitchen units but all services remain for direct replacement.

I would be pleased to show you and/or Clare around the building if that would be helpful.

Trusting that this response is adequate, please do not hesitate to call if I can provide further information.

With kind regards

Graham Moore

Dear Mr Moore,

As discussed, please find the Conservation Officer's comments below.

We require you to clarify how the change of use will be achieved and detail any internal alterations required. If there are no alterations, then this needs to be explained. We need to be clear as to exactly what the change of use will involve and the method which would be used to achieve this.

I will look forward to hearing from you.

Regards,

Ross

Dear Ross

I have been invited to make comment on the below application. While there are no general concerns on the Change of Use from a Conservation point of view, there are no details given on how this the applicant wishes to achieve this. The submitted drawings are marked 'Existing & Proposed', with general comments eg 'bathroom', without any methodology. It is therefore my professional opinion that there are insufficient details to properly comment on this application. I would be pleased to meet the applicant to discuss.

Regards

Clare
