

APPLICATION NO:

AB/36/18/PL

The archaeological interest of this part of the town comes from the presence of the medieval crossing of the River, the causeway that approached it and the possibility it would have attracted a ribbon of development on either side. However, it would be reasonable to assume that this would have been restricted to a narrow frontage along Queen Street and a plot of land about 40m deep at the rear (now bounded by the NW-SE line of Fitzalan Road and the backs of the properties on the SW side of The Causeway). In the circumstances it seems unlikely that the proposal would adversely affect any known archaeological interest to the extent that refusal or the requirement of any other mitigation measures would be warranted.
