Juan

Further to my original objection I am now writing to express my concerns that new plans and designs have since been submitted outside of the consultation window.

Following Martyn White's comments regarding destroying the further fabric of building, and the need for a full structural engineers assessment, it is noted that the current structural engineer report has made a fundamental incorrect assumption about the wall being continuous to roof level. It has already been knocked through at my level (2nd Floor) and also below me, and there has been no assessment to see if the necessary structural supports were added.

As it stands, no decision should be made until a structural engineer has properly assessed the matter.

Regards
