Dear Ms Penn,

A Certificate B which has been submitted with the above application does not claim that Notice has been served on you. You have asserted that the certification requirements have not been met. The legislation does not require the Council to seek proof from the applicant; the applicant is required to self-certify and if it later transpires that they have knowingly made a false statement they may become liable to criminal prosecution. We acknowledge receipt of your email and attachments the contents of which are being noted as support for your assertion that this application has not complied with requirements.

Regards

Anita

The application requirements of the above planning application have not been met, I own apartment 2 57a High Street (copy of title deed attached) and I can confirm that I have not been served with the requisite notice by Mr Paul Meredith even though I believe the application states that it has been served.

Kind regards

Emma Penn
