Dear Simon

I agree that I think we have already discussed the elevational changes. With regard to the alterations to the historic wall, the revised plans still show a significant amount of removal, resulting in a) significant loss of fabric and b) visual fragmentation of the wall.

Regards

Clare

See Action Sheet

Clare – for you to reconsider please. Looks like they are retaining sections of flint walls in the new rear gardens and also narrowing the car entrance into the back of the existing dwelling. Also note elevational changes which I think we have already spoken about.

Kind Regards

Good Morning Simon

Please find revised plans for Forge House to address concerns as discussed. The amended plans have made provision to retain as much of the rear walling as possible, retaining the historic context.

Best regards

Susan
