Simon,

I have just reread the application, and have the following additional comments:

- 1.The application states, "The garden store element of the car port provides storage of equipment and materials that would otherwise be stored externally." This is totally incorrect. The attached photographs show the external storage carried out by the owner. The new car port is full up, and they constantly have building materials opposite The old Dairy and on my right of way.
- 2.The report states they have significant area of hard standing. This may be so, if you include the parking that they have created by blocking my right of way. This has to be changed going forward , reducing their available parking. What they do have is a long narrow drive, which when full up looks like a car park, not a residential drive .

Regards

Simon
