Dear Mr Chapman,

The application does not need to go to Planning Committee regardless of whether it is refused or approved. Therefore signed-off could mean either.

We will aim to ensure that conditions are worded such that they can be easily monitored/enforced. However, I can make no guarantees that any conditions we impose will be adhered to – and if they are not then it may well be a matter for our enforcement officers.

Kind Regards

Very many thanks for the update, much appreciated.

Am I right in assuming that " signed off " means it will be approved?

How do we insure that any conditions you may impose (if it is approved) are actually adhered to this time, as we all know in the past that he has totally ignored planning conditions and proceed however he pleases. This can not be allowed on the same site for a third time.

Regards

Simon
