Dear Mr Smith

Thanks for getting back to me so quickly. I look forward to receiving a copy of your email to Mr Brewster and I very much hope that he will see fit to give priority to this simple matter which seems to have been delayed beyond reason. It is not so much that we need to meet him; more a case that maybe Mr Brewster can be better informed by actually seeing the oak for himself.

I think we'll demur on your suggestion to approve works to the horse-chestnut and poplar and submit a new application for the oak - we're sure that once Mr Brewster realises that the oak is too hemmed-in and has no amenity outside our garden he will see the logic of our application. Also, of course, we will want all the tree works to be carried out at the same time under a single contract.

Thanks again for your keeping me in the picture. I hope to hear from Mr Brewster when he returns next week.

Yours sincerely

Andy Baker

Dear Mr. Baker

Further to our phone conversation earlier, I will be writing to our Arboriculturalist, Ian Brewster, when he returns to work on Monday and will make sure I copy you into the E-mail. I let him know that you would like to meet him on site and discuss the future of the English Oak tree, I am sure he will be happy to meet you although please be aware that he may be quite busy as he has been away from work.

In the interim, if you would like to have a decision on the other two trees that were subject of the application (Horse Chestnut and Poplar) I could approve these straight away but would have to remove all reference to the Oak tree, it would then be possible to make a separate application (at no cost) for works to the Oak tree that I could determine expediently, once advice from Ian Brewster has been received.

I hope this has been useful, please let me know if there is anything else I can do to help.

Yours Sincerely

James McLean Smith
