

When we moved into the property in Dec 2011 the trunk was around 10cm wide. It is now in excess of 30cm, making it over 1mtr in circumference. The tree has been pruned in 2014 and 2017. Some branches have put on over 5mtr in some places. It is overbearing and causing excessive shading to my garden, and my neighbour's garden. It is in the corner of my rear garden and will not effect the street-scene of the area. When planted it was obviously a small pretty tree with the potential to add colour to the corner of the garden. Unfortunately it has developed into an extremely fast-growing monster with no visual merit. It does not flower. This tree is distressing and harming the amenity of both my neighbour and my properties.
