Dear Sirs,

Malmayne Court, Aldwick Fields PO21 3SW

ASH TREE (T1).

I have been asked to inspect this tree following concerns by residents that it appears to be in poor condition.

Foliage density is about 50% normal and there are signs of dieback in the crown suggesting infection by ash dieback (photo included). At the base of the tree on the west side there is an area of dead bark and exposed wood (photo included) which shows the presence of another pathogenic fungus. The tree is under severe stress and I believe that recovery to any useful extent is very unlikely under the conditions and, therefore, class it as moribund.

Yours faithfully

Stuart Power.
