Dear Mr Lock

Thank you for your email with attached photographs.

Although regularly maintained as a formal structure it could nevertheless qualify as a 'tree'. You may already be aware, but if the main stem diameter at 1.0m height is greater than 75mm a formal notice of intent is required.

It is unlikely we would recommend making a Tree Preservation Order but the usual procedure will need to apply, so that all decisions/outcomes are in the public domain and more importantly there is an opportunity for representations to be made.

With your permission, I would be happy to forward your email to our planning department, as the information therein should be adequate to form a sect.211 Notice (Notification of Tree Work in a Conservation Area).

I await your reply.

Kind regards,

Mark Warwick
