Dear Charlotte,

Many thanks for your mail, and I'm looking forward to working with you going forward.

I would like to point out that the information Mr Ostler recently provided is not in any way accurate or relevant because the cladding sample he shows in his submitted photograph is clearly not the same as the sample we provided for the council.

Mr Ostler has quite obviously obtained a sample of a different brand of composite cladding.

There are a wide range of cladding products currently available with varying degree of quality, but even a cursory glance at our submitted cladding sample - one which we selected specifically for its durability, quality and natural appearance - will show it is not the same as that so extensively tested and reported on by Mr Ostler.

Many thanks

Annaliesa
