Dear Mr White

254 Aldwick Road

Please find enclosed a completed application for listed building consent.

In 1995 my husband and I bought the above property. In 1996 we erected a partition wall in the living room. This was to create a room more in keeping with its original size and shape, and to create an extra room at the back of the property.

My husband and I divorced some years ago and I am now having to sell the property and in the process of putting the house on the market have discovered that planning consent is needed for such structures. I did not realise that this was the case at the time since my ex husband initiated the work.

I am very anxious to do the right thing and not to have any problems with any potential new buyers. I have tried to maintain the cottage to the best of my ability and to meet my responsibilities as custodian of such a lovely property. I believe the cottage is improved by the partition wall and I hope that you will give consent.

I know that this takes time to process but I would appreciate it if I could receive a decision as soon as possible since I want to get things straight in the event of a sale.

Thank you.

Yours sincerely
