Dear Mrs. Chapman,

Following our phone conversation this morning, I am confirming that Smart Landscapes intend today to remove the branches of the yew as approved in the above application. This is to note your verbal agreement to that.

Best regards,

Kevin Breen

Dear Ms. Burrows,

Thanks for your e-mail. It is our intention to remove all the branches of the yew tree nearest the shingle driveway that go to about 8 feet in height. This tree has been shaped into a box and the box is gradually collapsing into the driveway as the wires that tied the branches together perish. I am loathe to tie it all up again as the shape will be lost and I suspect it damages the branches in the long-term. This would leave the higher branches above the box (see pictures) and all of the second tree behind it intact.

Initially there would be a lot of bare wood below the remaining tree but being yew, this should fill in as it is yew. The main tree behind the one we would like to trim will benefit from the extra light and space. Hope that helps,

Kevin Breen

Dear Mr Breen,

Thank you for your email. Please could you just confirm exactly what will be left when 100% of the branches are removed.

Many Thanks

Miss Burrows

Dear Miss Burrows,

Following your conversation with my wife yesterday, I am writing to confirm that we wish to remove 100% of the branches of the small box-shaped yew tree in front of the main tree shown in the above application.

Regards,

Kevin Breen
