

Dear Sirs,

The proposed Description you give in your letter dated 25 August is not correct.

I can understand how you came to it. Dimensions of the trees are difficult to be precise about because they vary along the line and are hard to measure. The height of each run quoted in the Description of Works and on the Sketch Plan is the approximate average established height and the seasonal growth is in addition to that. It's possible only to estimate the amount of the growth there will be by the time that the pruning takes place. Last year it was in late November, but up to 1 metre at the top is typical for previous years. The arborist aims to get a level top line so the amount removed may vary. I can't give a figure for the sides but as much growth is trimmed for a tidy appearance while allowing for further growth without browning.

Therefore I propose a revised Description for the Planning Application as follows:

- Row of 16 Cupressus Leylandii remove top seasonal growth of up to 1 metre and side growth, reducing the height to approx. 4.5 metres.
- Row of 8 Cupressus Leylandii remove top seasonal growth of up to 1 metre and side growth, reducing the height to approx. 4 metres.

You can leave out the reference to side growth if you don't think it necessary. I hope this will allow the application to proceed.

Regards,

Albert Evans.
