Hi Stuart

Having looked at the drawing received today LSP/073/001 Rev B landscape proposals, I can confirm that the information now submitted contains the level of detail re the locations for the specified planting along with species choice, numbers and size at time of planting.

I would therefore now be able to recommend to approve the landscape reserved matters on application A/168/18/RES.

Stuart,

Do you have a time you would like to meet on 18th March?

As a side issue, I attach the revised plan for Sue's sign-off ahead of her holiday.

Stuart,

I assume that we are progressing with the 18th March as per my email below?

We are keen to get the date/time agreed before diaries fill up further.

Hi Stuart

Just to confirm that I won't be attending the meeting below, as the RES consultation response I have given has clarified that all I am waiting on is a plan which shows location of, in plan form the proposed planting detail.

Kind regards

Sue

Stuart,

I certainly do agree that we need to be getting the design right on this. However, I am still struggling to get any detail out of your email. There are references to "Site East of Roundstone Lane", "David Wilson Homes" and "Humber Grower", but I am still not seeing any actual comments about what you don't like about the design.

That being said, its clear that we need to meet to move matters forward.

However, I cannot make 12th March.

I can do the following:

- 14th March – 9-11am OR 3pm onwards
- 18th March – ALL DAY
- 19th March – 9-11am
- 20th March – ALL DAY
- 21st March – ALL DAY
- 22nd March – ALL DAY

Alex,

Thank you for your emails. I was unfortunately pulled away from work yesterday so I can only apologise not getting back sooner.

On behalf of Arun District Council and local area character, I hope you agree getting the design right is a major part of the proposal going forward.

The Masterplan and development principles – Site East of Roundstone Lane , Angmering, February 2014. Both David Wilson Homes and the Humber Growers document was adopted as a comprehensive approach to edge of settlement development. A similar approach is something we would like Merry England Nursery to adopt.

As for our Drainage and Landscape consultees, I attach their responses.

Sue Howell – Greenspace:

I can confirm that whilst the revised detail LSP/073/001/REV A has now included plant numbers, I still need this information to show in plan form the location of these. This avoids all doubt if it were needed to check on site post completion of what was proposed to be planted where.

Please request that applicant provide a detailed planting plan to show this planting detail, once submitted (and approved) I would be able to recommend approve the landscape reserved matters on application A/168/18/RES.

Laura Gibbons – Drainage:

I have now had a chance to look over the surface water drainage details. I am concerned by the lack of ground investigation data, lack of winter groundwater monitoring and lack of winter percolation testing results. Without this information it is incredibly difficult to ascertain if there will be adequate space on site to accommodate surface water drainage. I do have some further initial comments/queries regarding the current proposals in relation to discharge rates proposed, condition of watercourse to receive water, location of proposed fencing, location of proposed trees.

Therefore, I think it would be beneficial if I could also attend this meeting.

We would like to organise an office meeting as soon as possible. Tuesday 12th March at 11am?

Stuart,

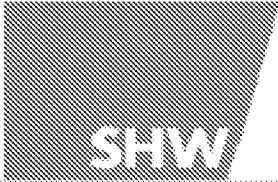

Further to my emails, I am sure you can appreciate that time is of the essence. You will recall from our site meeting that PNH Properties are keen to get going and to deliver the market and affordable housing which Angmering desperately needs.

My email(s) below, I hope, provide some greater local context to the development and provide some deeper understanding of the design approach. Certainly the aim has been to "reflective of the rich character and history of Angmering" as you put it in your email. As seen on site, with the boundary treatments, the only property visible from the development site will be the neighbouring bungalow with dormer windows, which is why this has been the greatest inspiration.

That being said, as I have already said, time is of the essence. The original target determination date was 28th February but this was extended to 13th March to allow for drainage and landscaping to be resolved. As you can imagine, something so serious like comments on the whole design approach throws a significant spanner into the works.

Given this, I have spoken to my clients, and they are willing, together with our architects, to meet with you to resolve the issues to see this scheme through to a permission.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Stuart,

Further to my email below, have you managed to give further thoughts to the design?

If there are still some concerns we will need to understand some specifics so that these can be addressed.

Noting that some of the delays relate to a need to address drainage (and then subsequently landscape), amending the design at this late stage will require further substantial work and time - which we are keen to avoid.

Can you please come back to me?

Stuart,

Thanks for keeping me informed.

It's a shame that we may need to do further work on design.

The outline application showed a very contemporary design approach which didn't appear to attract any concerns at that stage. However, PNH have taken a step back to review the local vernacular and therefore followed a more traditional appearance with dormers in the roof.

Outline Scheme

<image008.jpg>

Reserved Matters Scheme

<image010.jpg>

It is considered that this revised direction to design is wholly appropriate – especially when the attached CGI brings the whole scheme to life.

This design approach is exactly what the immediate neighbour has done next door which is shown below (Merry England is seen to the right of the dwelling).

<image011.jpg>

Certainly, what can be witnessed from the site visit is that there is no standard design approach along Dappers Lane. This is reflected in the adjacent site, The Laurels (A/74/18/OUT), having been approved with a different design approach to the original Merry England outline application.

The Laurels

<image014.jpg>

Therefore, you have existing development along Dappers Lane which follows no standard design approach. An original outline application which established something rather contemporary and different. Following that, an adjacent outline application was approved with another different design approach.

The adjacent dwelling, approved under A/120/09/, was therefore identified as having the biggest influence on the revised design approach to the Reserved Matters application. The proposal therefore reflected this design.

I am therefore a little confused as to your comments regarding the design and would welcome your further comments ahead of any meetings.

Nothing that the application has received no objections – including the Parish Council and neighbours.

Hi Alex,

I'm awaiting word from the consultees on this one to see if they're both satisfied with what you submitted.

We do, however, need to hold a further meeting on how to progress this case to decision.

It has been brought to my attention that the design of the overall scheme may need some further work. The design element of the scheme, its material palette, and the style of the properties proposed should be fully reflective of the area context, in addition to, an understanding of the social mix and how this works for the site. This is from a discussion and sharing of information that has come forward from comparable sites in the area, and the level of work that these sites have provided to demonstrate that the design, mass, bulk and mix is right for the overall character. As we are all aware the style and character of all new development schemes should be reflective of the rich character and history of Angmering.

I shall be in touch in due course.

Kind regards

In addition to my email below and the drainage information circulated, I have the pleasure in attaching the updated Landscaping Plan requested.

Assuming that Drainage and Landscaping are happy with the additional information, I do hope that you would be able to issue a Decision Notice prior to 13th March.

This would in turn mean that we could maintain our existing build schedule.
