

Application No: A/179/20/RES

There is no archaeological reason to object to this, however, it is in an area of some potential because of the presence of the favourable natural resources provided by the stream, particularly in the later prehistoric period. In the circumstances it would be appropriate to require that the site be investigated, either through a watching brief on all significant ground-works or an initial evaluation by trial trenching followed by targeted investigation thereafter as appropriate. This process would be best secured via the imposition of a suitable standard condition such as ARC1.

James Kenny
Archaeology advisor
01/12/2020