Dear Mrs Gardner

I have noticed that there seems to be a misunderstanding on the boundary of the development. In some instances it is implied that the southern boundary has trees and hedges that are part of the plot. These are in fact on adjacent land. The hedges and trees are heavily used by bats, hedgehogs, foxes and birds. I believe this land is Hargreaves Land Bank.

I did observe a bat survey monitor last year so it must be known that they are present.

It appears that the Land Trust/Parish Council are stating that they will keep/improve this corridor but it's not their land!

Could you clarify that the hedge/tree corridor is owned by Hargreaves and it will be maintained for the benefit of the animals.

Regards

Mike Hanson
