My wife and I would like to object to the above applications. We use Dappers Lane regularly as pedestrians and feel that our safety would be yet again compromised by the new plan of an ANPR camera instead of a physical barrier. Sussex police informed the Save Dappers Lane campaigners that they do not have the manpower to monitor such cameras. There has, over the past year been many additional houses built and still being built in Dappers Lane and the additional traffic and the hazards that this will be cause is huge. Angmering should not be subjected to such an increase in housing without safety measures in place to control the traffic in the village. The 20 mile an hour limit does not stop speeding traffic and increasing amounts of lorries are using the village as a cut through. You have the means to put controls in place, why wait for a serious or fatal accident to happen in what was once a pleasant village to walk in.

Hopefully yours
