Dear Amy Myer

After hearing about the change of use that has been submitted for what used to be Woodies newsagents years ago and is still signed as the Enchanted Florist, I wanted to see what was really planned.

I have to say I object. Another coffee shop and pub. We are a small village and already have enough choice for these. Establishments that are in a far more fit for purpose location. Even if drinkers aren't permitted to go outside, it is just not a big or safe enough corner. It's already a pig to drive up or down with cars having to reverse or mount the curb to get past. It has a tiny path to the side for pedestrians to walk on during cars passing. Imagine drinkers leaving at closing time safely. It will undoubtedly create issues and for residents who pay a lot to live in the village. Let's not add to the alcohol trade and it's unwanted anti social behaviours.

I simply object on two counts. A. In these times businesses need to be so unique or wanted to survive. The village could benefit from a wide variety like us older ones and the younger to utilise. A modern clothes shop, a hardware shop, a book shop meets coffee shop, a arts and crafts shop that could do sessions as well, a whole foods shop, the list could go on. The applicant could have got buy-in from a lot more locals with a consultation that would work with their aspirations. But 2. The space. To think it could be a pub come the evening is just silly. The landlord would certainly want to have gains from jumping on the bandwagon of the micro breweries popping up in towns but for this place it is simply unsuitable especially in one of our conversation areas.

Yours
