Thank you for your internet representation made on 20th June 2013 which has been recorded as 'support' with the comments as follows:

I am an employee of Fargo Ltd and as such the relocation and survival of the business is crucial for myself and family.

With the only other major horticultural supply company in the area going into administration just over two years ago it is vital to the substantial number of horticultural businesses in the area that Fargo continues to play a significant role in the supply chain for these businesses.

Fargo is a unique company offering not only a wide range of products but also advice and consultation on all aspects of commercial horticultural production as well as a leading force in providing pesticide free solutions for growers and their crops.

Fargo is very important not just for myself personally but for large horticultural industry in the area that rely on Fargo.
