Syon House II

Originally the Rectory. Now occupied by the Vocation Sisters. The north wing is an early C17 timber-framed building, altered in the C19. Two storeys. Five windows. Now faced with stucco. Tiled roof. The end window-bays project and are flanked by pilaster with gables over having scalloped bargeboards. Casement windows. The south wing was added about 1815 by the Rev. William Kinleside, who was Rector from 1775-1836. The ground floor is faced with rusticated weather-boarding, the first floor tile-hung and jettied in imitation of a timber-framed building. Hipped slate roof. Pointed Gothic windows with Venetian shutters on first floor.
