Dear Mr Crowther.

We are looking at the only remaining natural habitat in the area of the village

Although this sight may appear insignificant, it is a natural haven for species of butterfly, moths, hedgehog, field mice, birds and flora possibly other species. We have ceased to give nature any options a part of everyone's heritage shared and enjoyed by responsible people.

The spreading cancer of development in Angmering has already eroded every available space destroying much of the natural fabric of the area, important to any community environment.

The preference for more concrete is insulting the very last of natural habitat in favour of dwellings boasted at 175 units, which equates to approx 200 plus extra vehicles in today's multi car units, not to mention additional light and noise pollution.

This plan is an aggressive irresponsible venture without thought taking into account the already over stretched education, health and dental services.

What monitoring is in place for the concern of vehicle emissions the daily traffic now a constant flow through the village and crawling saturation on the A259 producing heightening carbon monoxide levels?

There is an expanding culture and eagerness to gain revenue at any cost more especially the breed of ferocious developers who after the event can walk away.

In regard to the natural world and the environment, we have become ignorant and insulting amounting to increasing concern globally.

What are we leaving for our children's children?

Yours Sincerely
