Dear Sir

Please can you confirm you received the below information and the other email which I will copy in regarding the invalid points

Kind Regards

Sian Eggington

Dear Mr Strange

Thank you for confirming that the application is ancillary. In order for the application to be made valid the following is required:

1. The red line on the location plan needs to be a complete solid red line with no breaks in it. This is a national requirement please amend accordingly;
2. Dimensions: You are required to submit dimensions from the proposed building to all site boundaries. Please submit accordingly;
3. Existing Plans: Please submit existing plans and elevations of the cabin. Please submit these at a stated scale of 1:100 or 1:50 with dimensions or a scale bar;
4. Plans: The plans which have been submitted do not have a stated scale and all plans are cut off. This may be due to the way the plans have been handed. Please resubmit the plans with a scale and not cut off.

You can send them directly to me at this email or at my main email address [REDACTED]

Kind Regards
Sian

Dear Mr Andrew Strange

I just spoke to you on the phone I tried to call back but it rung out. As the development is ancillary we can accept it as a householder application and deal with it here. Sorry for the wrong information given.

Following this email you will receive another email which will outline what is required for the application to be made valid.

Apologies again
Sian
