Dear Richard,

Please find attached the levels update following the LiDAR survey, and comment from our consultant below:

"Please find attached the completed addendum report in which we have validated EA LiDAR information by comparing the LiDAR data against know Southern Water manhole cover levels. This addendum report addresses the points raised by Laura Gibbons by comparing EA LiDAR data against known ground levels.

The main points within the report are as follows:

Based on available EA LiDAR data it is considered that any surface water runoff from the east of the site would flow towards the existing channel drain where it would enter the existing surface water drainage network. The channel drain along the eastern boundary appears to be at a lower elevation than the surrounding area therefore data suggests that any overland runoff will not flow off site. Given this, there will be no increased flood risk to neighbouring properties as a result of the development.

*Comparison of twenty-two known ground level elevations (Southern Water cover levels) with corresponding EA LiDAR topographic points has revealed that on average the EA LiDAR elevations are only 0.06m (6cm) greater than reported ground levels.
In light of these findings, the Environment Agency's 0.5m horizontal resolution DTM LiDAR data is considered representative of the elevation profile at the site and within the surrounding area."*

Please can you forward on to Laura Gibbons. Anything else you require please let me know, and hopefully this information will now be sufficient for you to approve the application.

Kind regards,

Andrew.

Morning Richard/Daniel,

See the following updates as we aim to wrap up this project:

- Samantha has now left the company, so I will be overseeing this project to conclusion.

- We have commissioned the LiDAR based survey for the required additional levels information.
- I hope to have this additional information with you before 30th October, and will let you know should there be any delays.
- Happy to agree to any further determination deadline extensions.

Kind regards,

Andrew.
