Hello Amol, as discussed, what's proposed (to discharge the condition based on the submitted travel plan but then for new travel plans to be submitted in 12 months) is a bit unusual. In saying that, the standard review mechanism within any travel plan could allow for such an eventuality. Whilst there's also the matter of the appropriateness of the measures, again this could be picked up through a revised travel plan.

Whilst the preference of course would be to finalise the travel plans at this stage, given the commitment within the travel plan, I'd be satisfied for the respective condition to be discharge based on these details.

Kind regards

Ian Gledhill

Dear Ian

Further to our telephone discussion yesterday, please see attached our amended Travel Plan. As discussed, the Travel Plan has been reviewed and the measures proposed in the Travel Plan have been approved by Warburtons, Aldi, Starbucks and Greggs. Following the occupation, ADL would prepare a detailed Travel Plan for each unit as part of their Travel Planning regime.

We have mentioned this in paragraph 1.3.1 and at various other locations within the Travel Plan.

I hope this amendment allows you to recommend approval to discharge the condition.

I would be grateful if you could expedite your recommendation as one of the occupants intend to start trading from 19th July onwards.

Thank you.

Kind regards
