Dear Mr Perry,

Thank you for your emails. I have discussed the matter with Mrs Chapman and Mr White and can confirm that a 'slim' double-glazing system can be used on the extension, subject to detail.

We look forward to receiving further details in due course.

Kind regards,

Dr Ian Wightman

Dear Dr Wightman

I am undertaking the detailed construction drawings for the above and I would refer to Item 6 of the 13 September 2012 Listed/Planning Approval Notices.

As indicated on the Approved drawings, of course, the openings and windows will have glazing bar arrangements to produce the proportions generally matching the character of existing windows: all as generally agreed. The construction, of course, is to be in painted timber as required.

Do you have any objection to the new windows and doors having double glazing in which thin timber glazing bars (of appropriate section) are included?

Best regards,
Anthony Perry
