Re planning for the toilets on The Promenade, Bognor Regis.

I may be repeating other people's objections but it is so obviously wrong for the toilets to be in the position you suggest.

I can't imagine who thought up this unsympathetic idea.

- 1 Having to look from their lounge window or balcony and see people entering and leaving toilets and then expecting them to police their use beggars belief.
- 2 If it proves impossible to work with Mr Coster's suggestion of opening the underground toilets from the road level {an idea that nobody at the meeting objected to) and having an attendant, as Littlehampton seem to have, then the car park at Butlin's end of The Promenade would be a better place. The cost of laying on water would probably be less hassle than opposing the wishes of Bognor residents.
- 3 As for doors facing north because of the wind, people have more sense than to stroll along The Promenade when it is that windy.
- 4 The suggested position would considerably restrict the use of The Promenade for the train, with bikes and pedestrians being channelled into a narrow section.

I would ask you to discuss and consider these points.

Yours

Dennis and Jean Bellinger
