Richard,

I am glad the application is still moving forwards and hope to be able to commence works in spring to make best of the good weather.

Item 5.8 of the works section of the spec states that clock faces should be protected with min 250micron plastic sheeting for the duration of the works.

Whilst there is no specific protection measures included for the internal clock mechanism (an oversight on our part) I am sure the provision of suitable sheeting to protect the workings will be included as part of the works particularly as internal wall faces are to be brushed down and cleared of efflorescence. The cost to the contractor will be minimal and as such probably does not merit re-issue of the specification. The clock mechanism will be stopped for the duration of the works by specialists.

I trust this is satisfactory.

Please feel free to contact me should you have any further concerns or to seek clarity on any matter regarding the above

Kind regards

Paul Gatland

Dear Mr Gatland,

Firstly, I must apologise for the lack of movement on this application, but we have now received comments from our Principal Conservation Officer. Please find attached.

Would you be able to address her concerns so we don't have to attach a condition?

Regards,

Hi Richard – There is no protection of the clock mentioned. There is also an objection on this matter.
