Morning,

I have had a look at the letter and though she feels that the ecological survey is not a fully updated survey it was done on the 01.08.2020, it shows that the information has been updated to reflect that the survey results cover the proposed works now. The original survey was done in 2019 so the findings were not out of date, and the ecologist is stating that the full survey he did then did cover the entire site including the area of works now proposed. I have looked at the ecologists information and experience and he has been working within ecology since 2000 and has a vast amount of experience in the field. Though he does specialise in marine ecology also has experience in terrestrial ecology too, so it suitably trained to conduct these surveys. Finally in regards to footings already being dug in the last few days and not included within the survey, this survey was done on the 01.08.2020 so would have been done prior to any digging taking place. However as we are still waiting on the results from the Great Crested Newt Survey this work may cause some serious issues if further work for newts is required.

Kind regards

Liz

Dear Liz,

Please see a letter of rep I have received today from James Baird, the farmer adjacent to this site, regarding the proposed flood defence works at Climping Mill. Can you let me have your comments in relation to the paragraphs in respect of ecology?

Thanks

Anita
