Re: Planning EG/108/17/OUT

On the 6th February, 2018, I sent in an objection to the above application to building a bungalow in the garden of 10, Downview Road, Barnham, West Sussex. I found out about the application by accident, looking at the ADC web site. No planning application notice was posted outside the premises. The expiry date on the ADC web site was 17th February. However, there was an expired planning application at the rear of the premises (EG/89/17/OUT)

On the 8th February I noticed that a planning application was put up outside the said premises with an altered expiry date to that on the web site of 1st March. The expired planning application was still at the rear of the property.

On 17th February, I noticed that the planning application sign (EG/108/17/OUT) had been taken down from outside the premises. Sir/Madam I do not like coincidences. It is very unlikely that the notice had been taken down on the exact day the original web site stated was the expiry date for the submission of objections.

Today I visited the web site where it showed the case officer to be Mr. Temple and the date for comments to be made, the 1st March.

Is the applicant the same Ben Browning, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] If so, another coincidence.

I do not like opportunists spoiling our community. I would find it hard to believe that the applicant has spent one night in 10 Downview Road. He certainly did not mention the building of a property in the garden to his neighbours.

I doubt that such deception will have any bearing on the outcome of the application, but we residents need to vent our feelings on the erosion of our community. The constant infill of land, the siting of the A29 behind our road and the proposed building of over two thousand houses on a site within two hundred metres of our road.

Barnham and Eastergate will no longer be villages but instead it will be an urban sprawl. Downview Road will no longer be a place of special interest but just another road the only difference being that the residents pay for its upkeep and not the local authorities.

Submitted for your consideration.
