Ms Seward,

Thank you for your email.

The north elevation is showing the extension's window and doors, then what I can only read as another door and a window. None of these appear on the floor plan (Plan1), which have to reflect all of the windows and doors that are shown on the elevations.

So, in other words, floor plan and elevations (both existing and proposed) have to match. If you look on our website at most planning applications, you will see that existing and proposed floor plans and elevations are normally submitted (this also depends on what type of permission is being sought). It may be also useful to go onto our website and search how to make a planning application and both the national and local validation requirements can be found.

I asked for a proposed floor plan in my letter so that I had the proposed floor plan to compare with the proposed elevations. I was not really what, when the letter was written, what 'Plan 1' was trying to show.

I hope this answers your question.

I have attached this email to the planning application for information.

If you have any other questions, please let me know.

Thank you,
Mrs Johnson

Dear Mrs Johnson

Further to our telephone conversation this morning concerning your letter of 27 March regarding our Application for a 6 sq metre extension, I see from your letter that you say the existing north floor plans and elevation do not accord. Can you please advise what you mean by this.

We are preparing the additional information you require and will forward this as soon as possible.

Yours sincerely

Sandra Seward
