Hi Simon,

I have passed on your query to our noise consultant, I will chase him at the end of the day if I have not heard.

In the mean time, there has been a very minor alteration to the orientation of the plant equipment following discussions with the project manager. It has now been moved from being horizontal down the rear of the property to vertical, perpendicular to rear wall but essentially in the same location.

Although this is a very minor change and will not effect the noise report, to avoid any confusion please can you swap over the proposed ground floor plans and elevations?

I trust this is acceptable.

Sophie
