Neil,

You are quite right West Sussex County Council do not allow surface water flows from private developments to be connected to existing highway drainage systems. The reason for this is that generally the highway system has only been designed to take surface water from the carriageway and therefore has no capacity for additional flows.

Hope this helps.

Hello Chris,

I was given your name by Jose Costelo as you are the WSCC contact for the Ferring area.

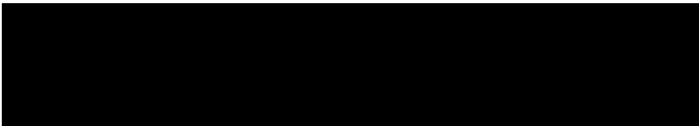

You will note from the attached drawing that we have connected the surface water from the private development to the combined foul sewer running along Ferring High Street. This drainage situation is no different how the site previously drained. We have therefore maintain the 'Status Quo'.

This Site is now complete with sales pending and the planners require confirmation from West Sussex CC that you do not accept the private drainage from the above property discharging into your highway drains.

It has always been our understanding that as designers, we are not supposed to connect the private surface water discharge into Highways Drainage Sewers.
Please can you confirm that this is the case?

I look forward to hearing from you.

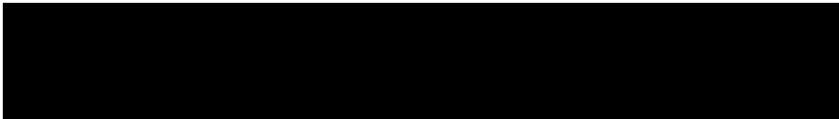

With kind regards,
