Hello Amy

I went and had a look this morning and took the attached photograph from the top of the rampart of the Scheduled hillfort. The application site may be just visible (somewhere in the vicinity of the red rectangle I've superimposed) from the top of the rampart of the hillfort near its centre, but isn't at all from anywhere within it and is obscured by the slope of the hill from anywhere below (outside of the rampart). In my opinion the effects of the proposed development on the setting of the monument would be less than substantial. If the containers and fence were to be painted dark green they would probably be barely noticeable amongst the existing trees and hedges.

I hope that helps,

James
