Hello Anita

Many thanks for your reply and I know it was short notice so totally understand re today

Do we have any more time for people to appeal online?

When is the deadline for the application decision?

It is such an important decision which will heavily impact those directly adjoining the site in such a huge negative way!

We bought this property and plot in particular, paying a premium for the location, and now feel our whole lives will be impacted so badly if a 24hours access petrol filling station should be granted as we would constantly be inhaling petrol and diesel fumes whilst in our garden, more worryingly do for my 2.5year old, and the noise of up to 24cars starting, stopping, idling, doors opening and closing, radios, nightly meeting points for young people, jet wash spray and noise, vacuum noise, fueling lorries day and night, plus the light from the signage and general lighting etc, house value negative equity.

I know I'm speaking about this on a personal term and there is a far bigger picture involved and appreciate everything yourself and the various departments are doing to make sure every stone is turned, however the positioning of this petrol filling station just seems absurd now our development has been built.

Why was the petrol not applied for when Asda was developed? I suspect it's because it wouldn't have been approved. I just wonder how it could be approved now when there is so much argument against it from the neighbours and the local parish etc. Nothing else is 24hours on this stretch of road. If this is let through then it opens the way for so many other things. Sainsbury's would've surely been a good site for them to request fuel on as it's in a small retail park but they don't have any and it begs the question why. We wanted to live in Ferring for its rural appeal by the coast-not in a noisy urban area.

Thank you for your time
