Dear Sir

I write in regard to the resubmitted planning application

FP/257/18/HH. I opposed the initial plans on the grounds that the property had in the past been extended many times & should not be developed any further. To heighten the roofline by just short of a metre to accommodate several dormers would not only be very intrusive but detrimental to the character of the area. I don't know what the intentions of the owners are for the extra living space, whether private or commercial but obviously this creates more traffic onto a very heavily used Footpath, one of the central sections of which has no pavements. Therefore rather dangerous.

Yours faithfully
