Surely the planning officers can see what a bad idea it is to build 650+ houses onto the Bognor Regis Golf Course that is now so flooded that you can actually paddle a Kayack on it as the GM of the club has done. In addition have the building works at the Amazon site added to the overflowing rife by the drainage ditch they have built to channel the rain water from their site into the rife? Everyone says we need more housing in West Sussex but how much do we really need? Building on areas that flood every year surely is not the right approach? The location is also called into question because of the access to and from the site through a residential area already with a busy school which increases traffic in the area daily. Add them 500+ Amazon vehicles and of course potential flooding in Shripney road it is no wonder locals are objecting to the Bognor Regis site being unsuitable for a housing development.
