Representative Viewpoint 11 (Right) - Arundel Castle, Arundel (4km, north east)

This long distance, elevated view is from the south-west tower of Arundel Castle facing south-west towards the Site. This extensive view is across the low-lying valley floor of the River Arun across a matrix of agricultural fields and field boundaries. Trees and hedgerow trees within the landscape layer together presenting a perceived wooded horizon. There are limited direct views into the Site due to intervening vegetation associated with Ford but Grundon waste management plant buildings and associated evergreen tree belt are discernible just below the horizon.

From this location, views towards the roofline of the employment area and limited areas of housing west of Grundon may be discernible in the Medium-term before planting. Due to distance and the wide panorama available, a Negligible scale of effect would occur and Neutral. As planting matures and screens the new employment buildings, Permanent effects would remain Negligible and Neutral.
