

Dear Richard,

Courtwick Lane Excavations- Production of final publication report.

As I iterated on the telephone, we are in the final stages of producing a published report of our findings on the site. This will take the form of a monograph in our in-house series. It is intended to be the next one (no 33), ideally to be produced in the next few months. We have progressed quite far in the publication process but belatedly find we need to iron out a few wrinkles in a pottery report.

All the monies to enable this have already been received and there are no more invoices due for the project.

The final act will then be to deposit the archive, which wont take place until we have published, assuming of course that the museum is taking material.

We will send you a copy of the report once we have produced it.

I hope this email is sufficient for your needs.

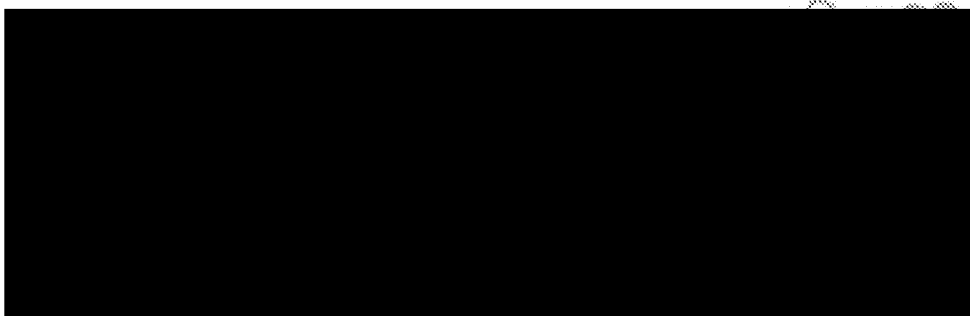

yours

Steve Ford

Please see below and attached. These relate to the development of land at Courtwick Lane, Littlehampton, and the requirement that the archaeological investigation be satisfactorily completed as specified in the Written Scheme of Investigation agreed in fulfilment of condition 16 on the outline consent (LU/355/10).

I can confirm that the field investigation is complete and that I am satisfied that funding is in place to secure a final publication of the results and that proper deposition of the archive is in hand. The requirements of the WSI having thus been satisfied, the planning condition has been completely fulfilled (and if it hasn't already been discharged then it should be now).

Best wishes,

James

Good afternoon James,

As discussed, I attach an email from the field team, confirming that the final publication report is well in hand and will be produced shortly, and that all funds are in place to complete the works.

I trust that should be sufficient to close out the planning condition, however, please contact me should you require any further information or clarification. If you were able to forward me your correspondence to Arun DC re the condition discharge I would be most grateful.

Regards

Richard.

Hello Richard

I am happy to agree that fieldwork on this site is complete. But before I recommend discharge, can you confirm that a final report is in hand?

Best wishes,

James

Good afternoon James,

We previously corresponded regarding the site at Courtwick Farm Littlehampton, Arun, West Sussex, back in September 2017 when we agreed to conclude the watching brief fieldwork.

Please see attached the watching brief report for your review – please do not hesitate to contact me should you require any further information or clarification.

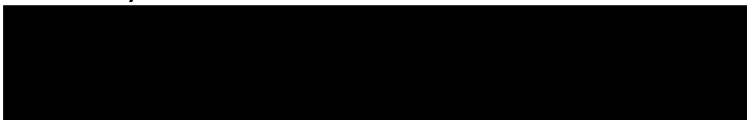

If you were able to copy me in or forward any relevant correspondence to Arun's planners, confirming that the archaeological planning condition for the site can be discharged, I would be most grateful.

Many thanks

Regards

Richard.
