

Good afternoon Hebe,

Thank you for your email.

It is extremely disappointing that you are unwilling to agree to an extension of time and that a pragmatic view could not be taken in this instance.

Since we do not want the application to be refused, you leave us with no option other than to withdraw the application.

Please let this email serve as our formal request to withdraw the application, which I would be grateful if you could acknowledge.

Kind regards,

Haydn

Good morning,

Thank you for your email. Unfortunately, I will be unable to accept further information on the application as the determination date for the application is this week. It is our policy not to accept amended information which would require reconsultation for non-major applications, and this is particularly the case when reconsultation would take the application beyond the determination date. I will therefore not be seeking to agree an extension of time on the application, and we intend to determine the application within the statutory deadline. I am expecting to recommend the application for refusal.

Kind regards,

Hebe Smith (she/her)
