Dear Graham

As discussed, the works to front of the building were considered to be ancillary works to facilitate the conversion. Accordingly, they do not require planning permission, if it was considered that these works were not minor alterations to facilitate the conversion, the change of use would not have been accepted as permitted development.

I trust this is of assistance.

Kind regards,
Peter

For the attention of Peter Cleveland:

Dear Peter Cleveland, following the approval dated 31.July 2014 regarding 1 and 2 Norfolk House Wick Street, I have been asked by my client to request a written confirmation that the alterations to the front [street] elevation requires no further planning approval as it is covered by the Change of Use decision having been shown on the drawings submitted with the Prior Notification application. I would be grateful for your response.

Kind regards, Graham Nicolls
