Roger,
 I could add an 'Informative' on any permission stating that the planning permission relates only to works above High Water Mark and that any works below this level would be subject to consent from other relevant authorities. Would this satisfactorily address your concerns?

Dear Anita,

After your message of November (below), we had a chat around my thoughts about the application and that I didn't have any specific 'coastal protection' concerns.

However, if you recall, I did have concerns that elements of the application might be below High Water Mark and that the information shown on the submitted drawings did not provide sufficient information to establish this or not. Arun could be considering aspects of the application that might be, as I understand it, outside of the Council's remit in terms of planning permission.

If the Application were to be granted, the Applicant might be under the impression that all of the development was included in that Permission, when that might not be the case.

Whilst I would confirm that I still do not have any specific 'coast protection' objections, I would be interested to know if the above situation has been resolved?

Regards,

Roger,

I have had no written response to my e-mail to you. Do I therefore assume you have no objection?
