Further to my recent comments

There is no mention on the plans, of the wood stove chimney on the north western roof of 49

This is the main heat source for the accommodation.

Whilst in accordance with the regulations now, it's very likely it will cause nuisance to the proposed neighbouring buildings upper set back amenity terrace.

Given the height of the new building, there will be some down draft issues, depending on wind direction.

Historically a chimney has always been in this position at 49.

Just over twenty years ago, the current chimney replaced the old brick one.

For this reason alone, and also the roof light being overlooked.

I do not think access to this flat roof area is viable.

It will inevitably cause disputes in the future.
