Dear Russell,

This application has now been updated with the revised drawings and was returned to me yesterday.

I must apologise, but the updating was delayed in our Admin, I had passed it through on 07 Dec. This means that the application has gone past its decision by date, which was 11 Dec. I would therefore be grateful if you and your client would agree to a short extension of time until close on Thursday 21 Dec, by which time I should have had time to consider and have the decision issued.

Please let me know.

Ross

Good morning Ross,

I trust you are keeping well.

I have discussed this Application with my colleague Joao and we have investigated the points you raised. Please find attached revised drawings which I hope address those queries.

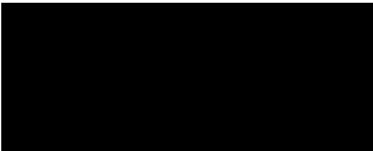

The existing conservatory was shown previously in an indicative style, but I hope I can reassure you that the size was correct. We have now refined the drawings to be more visually accurate. We have also corrected the roof line of the existing single storey extension.

I hope the attached proposed drawings give you enough information with regards to the neighbouring windows and extensions which we have shown on the drawings to the best of our abilities.

Kind regards,
Russell McCourty ACIAT
