Dear Mr Baeza,

After further investigation I've now been able to establish that the development of a solar energy park next door to my property won't in fact negatively impact my property value.

Also, I've not been able to find any data that indicates an adverse impact on human health from such an energy park.

I'm therefore satisfied that a development of this type alongside my property will be fine (from my perspective) particularly as I have established that the type of renewable energy it will supply to the local area will be better for the environment and this is a type of change that I support.

Best regards,
Manou Amirpashaie.

Morning Mr Baeza,

Please can you provide me the deadline date by when representations need to be received for/against the solar energy park application?

Regards,
Manou Amirpashaie.

Dear Mr Baeza,

As discussed on the phone this morning, even assuming no impact is born from approving a large energy park next door to my property the question I have is that if such a development is approved would it not materially impact the planning appeal decision made by the Planning Inspectorate in 2010?

I attach the decision notice for reference and cite the inspectorate's reasons for turning down the appeal, all of which are effectively about the impact on views from the surrounds.

However, given that the solar panels will be some 2.5m high and cover a significantly larger area than my nursery and given that my nursery is now completely enclosed by conifers that are themselves some 3m tall, no caravan will be visible from outside the bounds of my nursery.

Can you therefore let me know whether an approval of the solar energy park will also mean that a fresh application for caravan storage on my nursery will be positively viewed.

Many thanks,
Manou Amirpashaie
