I refer to my previous comments of 16/3/11. The contents of the revised Noise Assessment dated July 2011, and the proposed increased height (to 3m) of the noise barrier is noted.

There remains no assessment in respect of the potential impact of noise upon residences close to the proposed link road at night against stated criteria based upon prevention of sleep disturbance.

Clarification of the conclusion statement that residential receptors will meet relevant noise intrusion criteria with windows closed and without mitigation is required.

Chapter 5.3 indicates that with the proposed mitigation in place only "reasonable" daytime internal noise levels are predicted to be achieved in the above residences with windows closed, "good" daytime internal noise levels will not be achieved in two residences with windows closed. Furthermore 12 residences will not achieve a reasonable internal noise level with windows open for normal ventilation (15 residences will not achieve a good standard).

Clarification is also required in respect of external LAeq noise levels indicated in tables 5.2 & 5.3 which appear to disagree? Table 5.3 suggests that a reasonable or good external noise level will be achieved at all receptors.

It is noted noted that no receptors qualify for noise insulation under the Noise Insulation Regulations 1975.
