Subject: updated details

Hi there, yes thats fine to change the date to a more recent one, as you can see from the architects plans we have uploaded we are not now digging down for another floor and mentioned this to Andrew Wood visit in the pre-application stage, we are actually now having a log cabin built and so no foundations at all now are needed, we have done this to keep the costs down and make the planning application stage easier.

The pictures we have uploaded are all the plans we were asked to upload and paid and applied to the requested people in our recent phone call to council, is it just a case of outlining the plans and re-uploading again? Anything else required let me know.

Many thanks
SStalder
